U. S. MAY BE LAST TO HAVE NATIONAL EDUC. SUPERVISION

Standardization of Tests Is Considered

That 35,000 schools in this country are closed because of a lack of teachers, and that there are 65,000 teachers with temporary certificates now holding positions were among the facts given by Prof. D. W. Henry in his report of the N. E. A. convention at Cleveland, which he attended as one of the Toledo University's Representatives last week.

"Appearances indicate," Prof. Henry said in his report, "that the United States will be the last important country to adopt a nationwide supervision of education. There are places in the United States where it is practically impossible for the children to get the barest elements of education. Yet Congress seems not to take it seriously. Conditions are much better in France and even in Germany and England. It is high time we sensed the true meaning of democracy and get at the true basis of Americanization."

Prof. Henry further reported that: Dr. Judd is chairman of a committee now organizing to adopt a resolution that it is their desire that social sciences shall be introduced in the seventh grade and continue in the curriculum thru the twelfth grade, or Senior High School, with a B. S. credit of three units. This is a radical departure. Dr. Judd said, "If the social sciences have to have time, they should not rob history. Rather let them take the time of natural sciences, mathematics, or even literature courses."

S. A. Courtis, originator of the Courtis measurement test in arithmetic and chairman of the committee of the N. E. A. Research on Standards in giving this year's report of the committee, stated that achievement tests are very necessary in investigation of school problems that the field was still relatively new but that a point had now been reached when it was necessary to make great efforts toward the definition, uniformity, and standardization of testing methods. Mr. Courtis said that while such checks might tend to eliminate useless search such standardization should not lose sight of initiative and originality that are necessary in research.

This was the report given by Prof. Russell on the N. E. A. which he attended in Cleveland Thursday and Friday of last week.

A discussion of Junior Colleges which Prof. Russell believes will be of interest to this institution, will appear in the Teaser next week.

"Any teaching whether Latin or mathematics or English should be a stimulus to thinking rather than for the sake of simply acquiring knowledge. It is the duty of an instructor to link every study up with life," Dean Easley said in quoting matters of interest which the speakers discussed at the conference of Deans of Women which met in Cleveland with the department of Superintendents of N. E. A.

Leo Steinem, former editor of the Teaser, visited the University Monday. He returned to Toledo February 29, after having been in Milwaukee since September.

NOTICE—TEASER SUBSCRIBERS

If the Teaser subscribers who wish to call for their Teaser at the Student Supply Store on either Thursday or Friday, afternoon or evening, will leave their names at the Student Supply Store, the names will be taken from the mailing list and the paper reserved at the store to be called for.

T. U. WINS GAME WITH ST. MARY'S

Varsity Holds Lead in Speedy
Game

T. U. came out of the clash with the Dayton quintet at Dayton Friday evening at the long end of a 23-15 score.

Despite a poorly lighted floor, the varsity played well, completely outclassing their opponents and maintaining a lead of at least three points throughout the game. At the end of the first half the score was 23-15. Graves and Risky, at forward positions, played in fine spirit, Risky scoring the first point of the game.

Rousch's natural position is center, and he has never played better than against the Dayton five.

The guarding of Beck and Van Gorder featured the game, and during the entire evening St. Mary's had fewer than four shots from under the basket.

Risky and Graves divided the scoring, each making four baskets.

Line Up.

Risky.....R. F.....Matusnoff
Graves.....L. F.....O'Hearn
Rousch.....C.....Emmerick
Right.....R. G.....Manchester
Van Gorder.....L. G.....Summers
Scoring:—Toledo U. field goals, Risky, 4; Graves, 4; Rousch, 3; fouls, Risky 1 out of 4.

Scoring—St. Mary's:—Field goals, Matusnoff, 4; O'Hearn, 4; fouls, O'Hearn 1 out of 7.

Substitutions—St. Marys: Hocknold for Emmerick.

NEW MACHINES FOR ENGINEERING DEPT.

Prof. L. Scott of the Engineering Department announces the installation of two new machines. The machines were made for the government during the war, and have since been purchased and presented to the department by a friend of the University.

More machines like these are needed, and the way for securing them is now open. One year ago, a bill was introduced in Congress providing for the loaning of all such machines to schools in need of them. The measure was defeated, but a provision was made that schools might purchase them at fifteen per cent of their cost.

The first step was to place Toledo U. on the list of schools meriting the ownership of several of these machines. Through the efforts of Prof. Scott and an acquaintance on the board in charge of the sale of the machinery, Toledo University was placed upon the accredited list.

Everything now rests with the Mayor and the Council and judging from present indications, they will look upon the plan with favor.

STUDENTS JAZZ THRU SCHOOL

Entire Gill-Thal Orchestra at University

Toledo University students compose entirely the Gill-Thal Orchestra which has been as popular among the dancers since its organization by Emerson Gill and Ted Thal.

Days, Emerson Gill is an electrical engineer in the Sophomore class of the University. Evenings, Gill fiddles while Ted Thal furnished jazz at the ivories. Eddie Guckert, one of Toledo's best known trap players is also enrolled in the University engineering college.

Hyatt Berry, an Oberlin man, has registered at the University. Berry plays the banjo. Dalton Gill, a brother of Emerson's, while studying to be a dentist plays the flute. Duane Allen, another University student adds pep to the music with his xylophone.

STUDENT ORGANIZATIONS.

All student organizations are asked to furnish group photographs of the organization to Pres. A. M. Stowe by March 15. Cuts are to be made from the photos to be used in the University catalogue. The following are included in student organizations: Student Council, Woman's Association, Y. M. C. A., Varsity Club, Teaser Staff, Athletic Teams, Crescents, Kappa Pi Epsilon, Sigma Beta Phi.

IS DARK NIGHT OF MEDIEVALISM NEAR?

Dean Russell Speaks of the World's Future

"We are now standing on the brink of a precipice off of which we are liable to fall into an abyss from which it will take centuries to emerge," Dean Russell of the College of Education, Columbia University thus opened the minds of his hearers at the special Student and Faculty Convocation, Friday morning.

Now that the world war has subsided, Dean Russell feels that we are standing at the end of a period comparable to the end of that glorious Egyptian civilization thousands of years ago. "The startling thing about it all is that we may be going down into a dark night of Medievalism," stated the speaker. "It has been the truth so far. We seem to be falling into anarchy."

"The United States stands out alone in the whole wide world, a country with enough of the world's goods to go forward," said Mr. Russell, and hence he asks, "Can we go forward with the world on our back?" He says that the men of the passing generation know we are not able to do it because "what is coming after is more difficult of solution than that from which we have grown."

"We are not approaching the task in the spirit of statesmanship. We are slipping back day by day thinking we can do a year from now what we did ten years ago," were a few more of the startling facts stated by the famous educator.

The trouble with the Americans, Dean Russell asserts is their principle of "get all you can while the getting is good," and, he claims, such a principle will smash us all in the end.

"America needs efficient leaders, men who will be leaders of men. Twenty years from now," Mr. Russell concluded, "I'd like to speak to this same audience and point out those who have succeeded. Twenty years from now, a leader of men; Who is it?"

Mr. Elmer Gertz, pianist, opened the assembly with two delightful selections.

VARSIITY GOES TO DETROIT

Tomorrow afternoon the Varsity basketball squad will meet Detroit Union College on their home floor at Detroit. Last week the Detroiters came here and found Toledo too much for them. The student wish is that the T. U. players repeat in Detroit the score of the game played here.

NEW FEATURES TO BE INCLUDED IN 1920-21 CATALOG

Cuts Give Record of Year's Activities

Cuts of various student organizations are among the features of a university annual which are to be added to the Toledo University catalogue this year. Cuts of the Student Council, Woman's Association officers, Teaser staff, athletic teams, and of the various sororities and fraternities are intended to prove a means of acquainting incoming students with various student activities and also to furnish the present students with a valuable record of the year's activities.

The fore part of the book is to be divided in chapters devoted to a description of the various colleges included in the University. Photographs of the faculty will aid the newer students in recognizing their various professors at the beginning of next year. The actual description of the courses will not be the principal feature of the book as in previous years, but will be placed in the part of the book most convenient for reference.

SIGMA BETA PHI WILL INITIATE DANCE SERIES

Many Dances Are Scheduled
for Near Future

There is a bit of news that should be broken gently. It is an announcement that the girls' ears have been strained to hear for—oh, well, you know how long it has been since they began covering them up to hide the strain.

The Sigma Beta Phi on Saturday evening of this week will establish a precedent at the Institution. For the first time an organized group of fellows is putting on a social affair for all university students and their friends. Our own Gill-Thal orchestra, a good floor and the same congenial crowd you mingle with in the class rooms will be there. The Sigma Beta Phi invites every University student to come out and bring a friend and have a very pleasant evening as the guests of that fraternity. The University Auditorium will be the scene of the affair.

This record-breaking dance is only the first of record-breaking series which will be given by U students during four consecutive weeks.

The second is the subscription dance arranged by Pi Delta Chi Sorority for the evening of March 13 in the University Auditorium. The following Saturday evening the University Auditorium will be the scene of another subscription dance, this time under the direction of the Sigma Beta Phi fraternity.

Then, on March 26, at the Woman's Building is scheduled the sequel to the Big Foot Ball. On that date the University Athletic Association has arranged for a Big Basket Ball. Whether this dance is to prove a sequel in the mysterious aspect has not yet been announced by the athletic association.

Mr. Leutrell of the auto class is ill with the flu.

Mr. Bilm is again attending classes.

Our Best

For Toledo

"We will never bring disgrace to this, our city, by any act of dishonesty or cowardice, nor ever desert our suffering comrades in the ranks. We will fight for the ideals and sacred things of the city, both alone and with many; we will revere and obey the city's laws and do our best to incite a like respect and reverence in those above us who are prone to annul or set them at naught; we will strive unceasingly to quicken the public's sense of civic duty. Thus in all these ways we will transmit this city not only not less, but greater, better and more beautiful than it was transmitted to us."—Oath of the Young Men of Athens.

Editorially speaking, our hat is off to the Sigma Beta Phis for the social precedent they will establish this Saturday evening.

Irene says she thinks the members of a student orchestra are only a few of the multitude of students who jazz their way through school.

The number of things we want is fast becoming a negligible quantity compared to the number of our wishes that have been fulfilled. We wanted a Teaser office, we have it. We wanted the Faculty to entertain the students, a reception is planned. Irene hoped that the fellows would bestir themselves socially on behalf of the girls, they have. Our one desire now is a University Glee Club.

SCHOLARSHIP AND THE STUDENT.

"The modern student does not seem to have the proper perspective for proportioning his time. Instead of allotting so much of a period to this and to that affair, he allows things to become hopelessly jumbled and engaging in too many things at the same time, he becomes entangled in their mazes.

"There was a time when the student after he had learned the lesson assigned, would engage in research work in order to broaden his knowledge of the subject. Now, however, the books are flung aside after the lesson has been learned and nothing further is thought of the subject until time for recitation comes."—Varsity News.

The timeliness of these assertions is obvious. It is indeed true that a realization of the value of time and its proper apportionment is fast becoming a lost art with the average student, although upon that very thing lies to a great extent, scholastic advancement.

YOU WILL DO BETTER IN TOLEDO

A Toledoan was earning fifty dollars a week and attending evening classes at the University to get a college education and increase his business efficiency. His wife was attending day classes at the University as a part time student. A Columbus position offered a large increase in pay, so he accepted it and moved to that city with pleasant anticipation of the increased advantages he and his wife would enjoy in pursuing their college training at the State University. But to his great disappointment he found that the State University had no night classes and that his wife could not enroll as a part time student in the day classes. It was only in Toledo that he found the convenience of the citizens the chief consideration in the arrangement of classes and the formulation of regulations.

Another Toledoan received a financial offer from Detroit which he could not afford to refuse. But on leaving Toledo he remarked that he regretted going to Detroit because he and his wife would have to give up their college education.

Occasionally better financial return may be offered by our neighboring cities, but even then the Toledoan leaves his native city at a sacrifice, because few municipalities offer their citizens the opportunities for all-round development; cultural, artistic, industrial, commercial, business development, as does the municipality of Toledo.

EVENING STUDENT ARE YOU AMBITIOUS?

A recent story in the Saturday Evening Post will give you pleasure and also encouragement. It is a romance of shop management, a story of accountancy, a novel of economics, an incident of salesmanship, and a description of how to arrive in this world of industry and business. "Three Fundamental Laws of Business" by Victor Shaw in the Saturday Evening Post of February 21st is not an article. It is a gripping story of getting ahead in the world. Read it. Let your wife or your girl read it. Then you can argue about whether it is or should be your story.

LETTERS OF A LAW STUDENT

Toledo, O. 2-24-20.

Dear Pop—

Well I arrived in the city OK. To first I didn't know whether or not the train had pulled into a barn but the conductor said Toledo, Union Station! So I got out and found it was the place alright because there was a colored fellow there by the name of Porter and he told me I was where I ought to be. I stopped at a hotel the first night and the next day I hunted the university and finally found out where it was. If you ever come here it is on the corner of Illinois and 11th Sts. Toledo is situated right close to it. I had to register. That's a operation about like when you go to the town hall to vote. You tell them your pedigree and whether or not you graduated from the high school and show your diploma and then the lady who does the registering says OK you can be a matriculated student whatever that is. I ain't been to the library yet so I can't tell you. I'll let you know next time what kind of clothes or how a matric wears his hair. Then I looked at a schedule of classes and saw when I should go to my different studies. I did as you said and entered the college of law. They have about 10 different kinds of colleges here such as college of law, college of commerce & business, college of oh well several different ones. I only seen one building and a annex so I asked the lady where the college of law was and she said this one, and I said where is the college of business and she said this one and I asked her where several different ones was and she said every time this one and then I found out that all the colleges together go to make up one university. One hour one room is the college of business and the next it is the college of law. They don't change the numbers of the rooms only the name. The college of law is one time room 203 and the next 207. Room 203 must have been a store room because it was pretty cold the first day and there was lots of book shelves in it and two of the lights don't work. Well pop I think I'm going to like it here though cause the teachers is all nice fellows except the ladies which of course is women. I am living in a boarding house on Zumpty Street No. 232—I got a nice room which the landlady says has a southern exposure. From the draft comes in I think it is a north south east and west exposure but still its tolerable. Please send 50 dollars—the fellows here calls them bucks and a lot of them is jack. Money don't last long here I know sooner struck the U. Station when cracky went a dime for peanuts.

Well more next time and don't forget the 50. You're obedient son. Hi.

BANTER

"Squads right! You too!" yelled the corporal, after he had lined his men up. Then a series of commands like these:

"Form platoons, you too!"

"Double quick time, you too!"

"Company halt, you too!"

Here the major intervened.

"Why do you always say 'you too'?" he asked the corporal.

The reply was, "When I give an order, they tell me some place to go, so I always tell them to go themselves."

"Always remember", lectured Prof. Irwin, "that whatever you attempt, there is only one way to learn, and that is by beginning at the bottom—the very bottom. There are no exceptions to this rule."

"None?" queried Joe.

"None!"

"Then," said Joe, "how about swimming?"

Brandy explaining to Calculus student: Just get this theorem and you'll have the whole thing in a nutshell.

If it takes a four-months old woodpecker with a rubber bill thirteen days to peck a hole through a cypress log that is large enough to make 117 shingles, and takes 165 shingles to make a bundle worth ninety-three cents, how long will it take a cross-eyed grasshopper with a cork leg to kick all the seeds out of a dill pickle?

Roper—That's Perry Balmer, there. He will soon be our best man.

Marion—Oh, this is so sudden!

I suppose that I am not the only one, but I'd like to get it off my chest before the semester passes, that once I came to class on time and Professor Henry asked me what happened.

Judge—Sam, where do you live?

Sam—Ah lives at 2443 Canton street, sur.

Judge—Don't lie to me, Sam. That's a vacant lot.

Sam—Ah knows it, yo' hono'. You see ah lives upstairs there.

Judge—Sam, I hope I won't ever see you here any more.

Sam—Now come, Judge. You all gonna resign?

Bluffing is as bluffing does.

I thought you made a New Year's resolution not to smoke any more.

I did, and I'm living up to it. I haven't smoked any more than I did last year, a package of cigarettes a day.

While we do not wish to speak sarcastically of the honesty of some of the conductors on Toledo street cars, still we could never figure it out why they did not strike for more wages when the fare boxes were installed. Just think how much revenue they lost.

New Parson—"And what is your husband, Mrs. Brown?"

Mrs. Brown—"Well, sir, he ain't exactly a policeman, but he goes with them a good deal."

At a Pi Delt Meeting.

Louise—"Women always contradict each other."

Amy—"They do not."

In Chemistry.

Prof.—"What solution of hydrogen peroxide do you use in bleaching teeth?"

Czech—"A twenty-five cent solution."

TRIALS OF A LAW STUDENT

The prof. asks a question, you think he is calling on you, you gracefully arise and announce to a waiting world that you haven't read the case, and he tells you he was not calling on you at all.

Louise—"Do you believe in Library Rules?"

Amy—"Well, I don't think other people should be allowed to talk there."

An evil bane,
Whiskers thick,
Without a brain
Is the Bolshevik.

ANSWERS

BY MISS ANN CIRCE

Dear Miss Circe: Where can I find the latest thing in book-marks?—Gibbs.

Answer: Have Amy show you a "mark of a mathematics book" executed by herself. This is the latest book mark we know of.

Dear Ann: Is Kenneth a finished musician?—Dot.

Answer: Not yet. But if his neighbors have their way about it, he will be.

Dear Ann: Don't you think a talented girl is more popular with the fellows than any other kind?—Karyn.

Answer: What other kind is there?

Dear Miss Circe: Don't you think G. Skillitter is rather boastful? He told me the other night he was self-made man.—Frances.

Answer: He wasn't boasting, he was apologizing.

Dear Ann: What is the connection between the animal and vegetable kingdoms?—Biological.

Answer: Hash.

Dear Miss Circe: Do you believe that attending the U. is the best way to sweep the cobwebs from one's brains?—Steve M.

Answer: Maybe, but for some people a vacuum cleaner must be better.

Dear Ann: The boys are always teasing me. What shall I do?—Jane.

Answer: Try breaking a window or something. It worked once.

Dear Miss Ann Circe: Why are everybody so happy Sunday?—Helene.

Answer: Why, it was February—the marriage day of the year. See Times for verification.

Dear Ann: A young man says I have a heart affection for me. What shall I say to him?—Pauline M.

Ans.: If he has had it lung and thinks he cannot live without you, better say to him "Asthma".

Dear Miss Circe: Earl and I say that in their Student Supply Store business they have concluded that a woman who doesn't ask a dozen questions about anything she wants to buy is queer. Do you believe that?—Gladys G.

Answer: Maybe so, but we believe that the woman who does is the querist.

Dear Ann: I have trouble with math. It worries me. Can you suggest something?—Student.

Answer: I wouldn't worry about it. Some of us is good at it and some ain't. It's just as Bill Shakespeare said, "y' know, the flatter the plate the fewer the soup".

Dear Miss Circe: In view of the dances that are going to take place in the Auditorium I should like to learn to two-step. Where can I learn?—Do-or-Die.

Answer: We are sending by mail the names and address of two sisters who can probably teach you.

Dear Ann: Must an engaged ring be a flawless diamond?—Hedreth.

Answer: Not necessarily. Some people hold that love is stone blind.

Dear Miss Circe: Is it true that Helene M. is going under an assumed name?—Claire.

Answer: Oh, no. She hasn't assumed it yet, just promised to.

Dear Ann: I have a lovely jet pin is it out of style?—Hazel G.

Answer: Not jet.

DO THE DEAD COME BACK?

Vendis Ekipirk,
Who is professor of bugology
In the university
Of the neighboring metropolis
Of Maumee,
Called me on the phone
This A. M. and said
He had proof
That the dead come back.
I called at his office
To get the story.
First I asked him
If he believed in spirits
And he said, "Yes,
Because I had two cases of them
Until two months ago,
But now unseen hands
Have spirited my spirits away."
So I asked him what this
Had to do with the dead coming back.
"I will show you," he whispered,
And tiptoeing his way
To the cellar he showed me
Two cases of empty whisky bottles.
"These," said he, "were spirited
Into my cellar
Last night, thus proving
That the dead ones come back."

LAW SOCIETY DECIDES
EVERY STUDENT SHOULD HAVE ONE $50 SUIT

Every university student should be provided with a suit of clothes worth $50 was the interesting decision made by the Cofer Law Society of the University of Texas last week, and what's more, Dad should buy 'em.

The plaintiff was suing upon an open account for one suit of clothes purchased by the defendant's son, plaintiff alleging that said suit was necessary and proper for a student at the University of Texas and that $50 was a reasonable price therefor. The jury returned a verdict for the plaintiff on the ground of necessities furnished which the parent should have provided.

PI DELTA CHI SPREAD.

The girls of the Pi Delta Chi Sorority entertained at the Woman's House Friday, February 27 in honor of some of the new girls. Their guests included the Misses Margaret Roper, Fern Dickey, Bee Spafford, Helen Steward, Mary Fortney and Alice Hill. After the delightful spread tables of 300 were formed. There also was an auto race in which Margaret Roper came in first and Helene Menold "brought up the rear" in a Saxon.

Debt slavery, in which children are taken in pledge of what their parents owe, still exists in Trengganu one of the unfederated Malay states under British protection. The debt is treated as hereditary, the children are taken in pledge and no reduction is made in the debt on account of the labor of the debtor. The system is soon to be abolished.

WOMAN'S ASSOCIATION PLAY TO BE EVENT OF
EARLY APRIL AT U

Mr. Pavlicek has been engaged to direct a one-act comedy (the name of which will be kept secret for sometime, at least) which the Women's Association will offer in early April. Dancing will follow the play in the Auditorium-Library. Miss Hazel Geiner will have the arrangements in charge and a sprightly, merry comedy, followed by the honest-to-goodness foxtrot melody from Mr. Gill, is promised to all those fortunate enough to purchase a ticket before the seating capacity is reached in the big sale.

REV. HARRY W. VINCENT
TO ADDRESS Y. M. C. A.

Rev. Vincent will address the Y. M. C. A. meeting at the Y next Tuesday afternoon at 1:15 o'clock. Important business will be taken up before the address. Come on time—bring another fellow along.

DON'T take a fellow's pipe. Take some other possession. Because wrapped up in his pipe is a fellow's peace of mind, his relaxation, his contentment. This is more than true if it's a WDC Pipe, because then a good smoke is multiplied many times over. Our special seasoning process takes care of this by bringing out all the sweetness and mellowness of the genuine French briar. Just you go to any good dealer and select several good shapes. Put them in your rack. Smoke a cool one every time, and you'll be well on your way to pipe-happiness.

UNIVERSITY WINS FROM DETROIT JR. COLLEGE

RISKEY STAR OF GAME SCORES 23 POINTS

Detroit Junior College went down to defeat before the reorganized T. U. Squad 39-9, on Wednesday, February 25, when the Detroiters came here to battle with the T. U. five. The game was clearly T. U.'s from start to finish. Roush playing at center, playing a wonderful game, scored 3 field baskets. Beck was back at his old position at guard and with the assistance of Van Gorder held the Detroiters to 4 field goals.

Riskey walked away from his guard and scored 7 fielders and 9 fouls, being easily the star of the game.

Art Graves, who has been sick for the past month, is back in shape and relieved Merkle at forward during the second half.

Blatt starred for Detroit but failed to show up on account of the extraordinary guarding of Beck.

Lineup and Summary.

Toledo U.	Detroit Jr.
Riskey.....R. F.	Blatt
Merkle.....L. F.	S. Rosengiveg
Roush.....C.	A. Rosengiveg

"U" GIRLS ESTABLISH FADS.

Just to prove that they do not necessarily cling to established customs—Marian Hart takes egg-shampoo in the dark and Louise Plum wears her pumps on the wrong feet—both feet being hers however.

The Catholic World for March will contain a lengthy article by Prof. C. Holliday, entitled "St. Patrick's Folk in America", describing the part the Irish band played in American history from the earliest days to the present.

EARNING POWER DOUBLED BY. T. U.

Following are extracts from a letter received by Dean F. U. Quillin from a former University student: "My Dear Dr. Quillin:

I told you of this Detroit proposition. It has materialized and I am in charge of this plant as manager.

The fact that I most regret about leaving Toledo is the loss of the opportunities afforded by Toledo U.—Wish there were some way that I could get under your wing, if only for a correspondence course.

Do you know that I have doubled my earning power within the last year, the difference being almost wholly due to what I have gotten out of Toledo U."

An optimist is a bird who gets up whistling on a winter morning when the furnace is out, the water pipes frozen, a heavy fall of snow on the sidewalk and the country dry.
