Surrounded, but Gerber Bounded On to New Scoring Peak

Celtics Key to Ky. Win

If you're looking for the man who has something to fret about, go no further than Frank Keaney.

the Rhode Island State basketball coach . . . In its last two games, Rhode Island scored 82 and 71 points—but lost them both . . . The 82 were made against Brown last week, but the Bruin made 83 . . . The 71 came in the Garden last night, but Toledo made 82.

Nat Holman
Those were no publicist's pipe dream about Ed Diddle, the towel-waving Western Kentucky coach . . . Diddle did enough towel gyrating to qualify as a boy scout signaller . . . Diddle never scouted City College, but says: "I refereed a game between the Original Celtics and Cleveland Rosenbloss out in Bowling Green about 15 years ago. Nat Holman played. Figured his City team plays the way the Celtics did."

According to Gerber and Quinn, the Toledo stars, Rhode Island took more out of them physically than any other team they've met . . . "That was the first time I ever put cotton in my mouth," said Quinn, who played a few minutes more than half the game

ing on. Stutz Modzelewski, No. 7, managed to stop Bob here but only momentarily, as he fouled him and mid-West's ace sharpshooter dropped two foul goals. Earl Shannon, No. 5, is on Gerber's right flank, and two other New Englanders are in rear. Bob rang up 37 points, cracking individual scoring marks as Toledo outgalloped Rhode Island, 82-71.
