Dear Dr. Chandrasekhar:

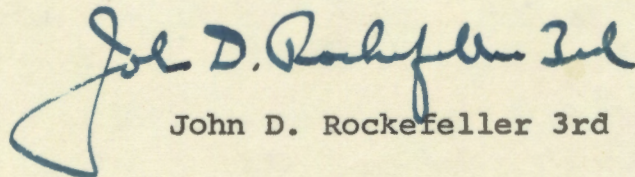

Since our recent Conference on Population at the Villa Serbelloni in Italy, our discussions have been much in my mind. I found the meetings stimulating and learned much myself.

As a follow up on the Conference I dictated some notes to clarify my own thinking. Some of the points made represent relatively new thinking and others more the strengthening of ideas already held. It occurred to me that these personal observations might be of interest and therefore I am taking the liberty of enclosing a copy.

It was a pleasure being with you at the Conference.

With warm best wishes, I am

Sincerely,

John D. Rockefeller 3rd
