Bribing a student to break the library rules in the University of Toledo was the role played by Dr. Philip C. Nash, president, yesterday ~~Monday~~ (Tuesday, Nov. 19). ~~When he~~ ~~asked~~ The president asked William Tucker, senior in the college of arts and sciences, to break the quiet solitude in the library at 11:55 a.m. by announcing to students there that a special mass meeting, the first in the history of the school, would be held at that time in the field house. He also added that in ~~case~~ case the ~~announcer~~ announcer received the usual 25 cent fine for talking in the library that the bill could be turned over to the president for payment. At the meeting, it was announced that enough money to buy chimes for the tower had been raised.
