FOR RELEASE UPON RECEIPT

Eleven West German teachers participating in the Experiment in International Living will tour The University of Toledo on Tuesday (August 16) as part of a 17-day visit to Toledo.

They will arrive on campus at 9 a.m. and will tour the Colleges of Arts and Sciences, Engineering and Law and the University Library. After a noon luncheon given by Dr. William S. Carlson, TU president, in the President's Dining Room, Student Union room 209, they will visit the College of Education and the University Community and Technical College.

While in Toledo the German teachers are living with area families. They also spent a week at the University of Rhode Island and before returning to Germany will visit New York City and Washington, D.C. They will leave Toledo on August 25.

Arrangements for their visit to TU were made by Eugene Shinavar, assistant professor of general studies in the University Community and Technical College.
