

Reconstruction

PAMPHLET OFFICE

Post-War Opportunities and Problems
Posed for America by
Textile Industries of China and Japan

The need for information concerning post-war opportunities for the United States textile industry in the Far East and the problems created for America by the textile industries of China and Japan is at last met by publication of:

UNIVERSITY
"THE TEXTILE INDUSTRIES OF CHINA AND JAPAN"

AUTHOR:

FESSENDEN S. BLANCHARD, President of the Textile Research Institute, Inc., who has drawn upon his own first-hand experience in the Orient; his contact with Japanese textiles through membership (1937-1940) on the Japanese-American Textile Commission, to administer the export agreement on Japanese cotton goods; plus a thorough study of recent developments in which he was aided by men who are in close touch with the textile industries in both countries.

PUBLISHER:

TEXTILE RESEARCH INSTITUTE, INC.
10 EAST 40TH STREET
NEW YORK 16, N. Y.

PRICE $1.00

Its Importance to the U. S.

An understanding of the textile industries of China and Japan is important to us for three reasons:

(1) Japan may become a serious competitor of the American textile industry—not in cottons alone.

(2) The Chinese textile industry may offer a splendid post-war opportunity for American capital and management.

(3) The textile industry is at the core of the economic problem of the Orient—which will require solution at the peace conference.

SUMMARY OF CONTENTS

The comprehensiveness of this study is indicated by the following index of the report:

- I. INTRODUCTION—PURPOSE OF REPORT.
- II. THE TEXTILE INDUSTRIES OF JAPAN.
 1. History to 1941 and Place in Industrial Life.
 2. The Cotton Spinning Industry—including Weaving, its History, Reasons for Success.
 3. Effect of War on Japanese Cotton Industry.
 4. Management and Labor—Japanese Cotton Spinning Industry.
 5. Japanese Labor Union Movement.
 6. Textile Raw Materials—Cotton, Silk, Rayon.
 7. Japanese Foreign Trade in Textile Raw Materials and Products.
- III. THE TEXTILE INDUSTRIES OF CHINA.
 1. History of Cotton Spinning and Weaving Industry.
 2. Obstacles to Success of Cotton Industry.
 - (1) Political Unrest and Civil Strife.
 - (2) Japanese Interference.
 - (3) Inefficiency of Management.
 - (4) Labor Problems:—Inefficiency, Labor Movement, Strikes.
 - (5) Financial Problems.
 - (6) Raw Material Problems.
 - (7) General Problems.

3. Effect of War on Chinese Cotton Industry.
4. Labor—Supply, Conditions, Wages, Hours.
5. Principal Textile Raw Materials—Cotton, Wool, Silk.
6. Chinese Foreign Trade in Textiles.

IV. POST-WAR TEXTILE OPPORTUNITIES FOR AMERICA IN CHINA.

1. Possibilities and Conditions for Success.
2. Attitude of Chinese Toward Foreign Investment.
3. Importance of American Attitude Towards Chinese Goods.
4. Chinese Pre-Requisites to American Investment.
5. An American-Chinese Mill Enterprise in China.

V. APPENDIX.

STATISTICAL INFORMATION— APPENDIX

A valuable selection of statistical information is contained in the appendix to the report. Of special importance is the comprehensive list of bibliographical references.

PARTIAL LIST INDEX TO APPENDIX

1. World Cotton Consumption and Spindleage—Year ending January 31, 1939.
2. Current Statistics on Raw Cotton in China.
3. Areas of Raw Cotton Production in China—1937-1938.
4. Annual Consumption of Raw Cotton in Japan—by sources—1935 to 1941.
5. World Rayon Yarn and Staple Fiber Production.
6. Place of Textiles in Japanese Industry.
7. Growth of Japanese Cotton Industry—Spindles, Looms, etc.—1866 to 1941.
8. Japanese Imports and Exports of Principal Commodities.

9. Japanese Exports of Cotton Piece Goods and Yarn.
10. Japanese Exports of Cotton Piece Goods to the U. S. by years.
11. Notes on Japanese-American Textile Agreement of 1937 and renewal.
12. Japanese Silk Textile Industry.
13. Japanese Rayon and Synthetic Industry.
14. Japanese Wool Imports in Pounds.
15. Wage and Labor Efficiency Comparisons.
16. Growth of Chinese Cotton Industry—Spindles, Looms, etc.—1890 to 1941.
17. Location of Mills and Spindles in China and Manchuria—1941.
18. Chinese Textile Employment by Industry Branches.
19. Chinese Cotton Yarn Imports and Exports.
20. Chinese Cotton Piece Goods Imports and Exports.
21. Decline of American Piece Goods Sales to China—by types of Goods.
22. Exchange Rates, Japan and China, 1924 to 1941.
23. Sources of Information and Bibliography.

This pamphlet is printed and bound, 70 pages and cover, size 6" x 9".

ORDER FORM

To
 Textile Research Institute, Inc.
 10 East 40th Street, New York 16, N. Y.

Enclosed please find check money order for $_____

Please mail me _____ copies of The Textile Industries of China and Japan.

 Name

 Address

 City