

From Public Relations Office
University of Toledo
For Friday, Feb. 2

The University of Toledo's new president, Asa S. Knowles, will confer degrees on 172 candidates at midyear commencement tonight in Doermann Theater. It will be his first public appearance since taking office early this week.

Top students in the graduating class are John S. Mikus and James H. Tigges of Toledo and Sidney J. White of Brooklyn, N.Y. They will be graduated magna cum laude.

A posthumous cum laude degree of Bachelor of Business Administration will be awarded Carl E. Winzeler, Toledo triple amputee, who died October 5 while in the last semester of his senior year.

Dr. F. Bringle McIntosh, president of Ohio Northern University, will be the commencement speaker. He was formerly Toledo district superintendent for the Methodist Church and one of the original members of the Toledo Labor-Management-Citizens Committee.

The exercises begin at 8:15. Admission is by ticket only.
