

THE UNIVERSITY OF TOLEDO

TOLEDO 6, OHIO

Department of History

April 26, 1965

There will be a meeting tomorrow afternoon, April 27, at 3 p.m. to discuss the proposed institute for the University of Toledo. The meeting will be in the Arts & Sciences conference room, Room 356. You have already received a proposal for a Labor History and Research Institute to be established on campus. Dr. Giesecke and I have discussed this at some length and feel that we should broaden the scope of such a project to such an extent that it would include as many component factors of research interests as possible. My suggestion on this would be to establish an Institute of Metropolitan Living as a take-off point. There is some conjecture that this type of institute for research purposes would facilitate a solicitation of funds from not only labor but business, management and local and federal government. Whatever ideas and suggestions you may have will be greatly appreciated, and I look forward to a profitable session.

Cordially,
